This week’s student of the week is Spencer Allen. He hails from Raleigh North Carolina and attended Wakefield high school and graduated in 2011. He is a Computer Science Major. His favorite subjects are the physical sciences. His interests include Videogames, Science, Cartoons, programming, and mechanics. His most memorable moment in the Academy was presenting his side-scroller game to the Academy group at the end of the semester last year. Upon graduating, Spencer hopes to go into game programming and level design in Montreal. He would also like to get involved with software for game distribution and management. When asked to provide a quote about the Academy Spencer had this to say, “You get paid to explore ideas in your field, what else do ya need to know?”
