

Type of Mathematician

Freeman Hrabowski received his Master's in Applied Mathematics in 1971 and a Ph.D. in Higher Education Administration in Educational Statistics in 1975 from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (ULUC). However, the library at ULUC would not release Hrabowski's theses. To have mathematical content in my study of him, I analyzed and critiqued two articles written by Hrabowski that contained statistics.

One may infer that Hrabowski has not continued his research in applied mathematics. Instead he has become more of a math educator incorporating statistics in his research.
