

School Experiences

Doris Schattschneider grew up at a time when women were starting to be accepted at more colleges and universities. Being born in 1939, she had more opportunities available to her than some of the other women mathematicians that we have studied. I could not find any specific examples of experiences she had in school other than the one listed on the Gender and Multicultural Issues page. (See that page.)