Austin Meadows is from Winston-Salem, NC and graduated from East Forsyth High School in 2012. He is an actuarial science major and his favorite subject is math. He enjoys incredibly bad movies, fiddling with computer parts, playing in a band with his friends, swimming, and hiking. Austin has always liked the completely objective aspect of mathematics. After taking a calculus AP course in high school he was introduced to actuarial science and once he learned that ASU provided it as a major he was sold attending class here.
